You use your nose to smell. When you breathe in through your nose, you can smell what is around you.

You use your eyes to see. When you are seeing, you are using your sense of sight.
You use your ears to hear. When you listen with your ears, you can hear what is around you.

You use your skin to touch things. When something touches your skin, you can feel it with your sense of touch.
You use your tongue to taste. When something touches your tongue, you can taste its flavor.